'College Sweethearts' video:

Husband and wife graduates, Catherine and Philip Ryan, met while studying at UCC in the 1960s. The couple returned to campus more than fifty years later to celebrate the naming of the Alumni Bridge, the place that marked the beginning of their relationship.

The couple recreated the famous photo captured of them as college students crossing the bridge on the day of the event.

In this video, they look back at their time at UCC and how the university has changed in the intervening years:

The video served to be an engaging and personable piece of social media collateral:
